This map illustrates the distribution of higher education institutions across the Greater Tokyo Area. It uses a color-coded system to categorize different regions: blue for the western part (including the Yamanote Line area), orange for the central part, yellow for the eastern part, and green for the southern part. Major lines like the Yamanote Line, Keihin-Tohoku Line, and Chuo Line are shown. Numerous university names are marked with colored dots and text, including Tokyo University, Keio University, and others. The map also shows major roads and geographical features like the Sagami River.
